

BRINGING IN A WORK CREW FOR VIDEO PRODUCTION

We will need a fair amount of people to make it work and to make a smooth production crew. In careful consideration of this task I would like to draw from the people that we have worked with in past event presentations. I don't believe in reinventing things that have already produced a good Christian community experience.

Here are some suggestions for the different jobs and descriptions that will be needed. Before we invite people it will be good to have a core group for making important decisions. The core group should be made of people that have labored both in the secular as well as with the believers for cause of Christ.

The Production Department

For now many names will overlap and be integrated into many different parts of the production. After establishing the department head of each course these duties can be delegated out to less experienced people for training and growth.
